

Planning your return to the office

Engage with staff

Don't rush this process or design large-scale changes in haste

Recognise that everyone has had a different experience

Make the most of the opportunity that the disruption has created

Build in technological resilience and adaptability

Consider new starters